

The Thatch

• OLD WORLD BAR & RESTAURANT •

WELCOME

The Thatch, situated in the village of Crinkill, is one of the oldest pubs in County Offaly. As the name suggests it has always been thatched. Many of the older generation will remember this quaint and indeed exclusive pub as 'Mother Walsh's'.

Throughout the years, many visitors from abroad have come to The Thatch and reminisced on stories told to them by their fathers and grandfathers who affectionately remember happy evenings spent in the warm atmosphere of this fine traditional pub.

In 1995 a restaurant was added and its food business has grown from strength to strength. The Thatch has won many awards from the Restaurant Association of Ireland as well as numerous accolades from distinguished food critics and writers.

The Thatch offers the very best of modern Irish cuisine always using the finest local and seasonal produce. All food is prepared by Head Chef James McDonnell and his team.

We hope you enjoy your meal and your visit to The Thatch.

With much appreciation for your custom.
